

EVALUATIONS OF RESTIVENESS IN CONGRESS VARY

President Has Secured None of His Desires in Past Ten Weeks

Washington, March 13.—(AP)—The overwhelmingly Democratic congress ended its tenth week today with none of the New Deal program enacted and political Washington wondering what this signifies for the Roosevelt future.

Challenged as never before, the administration's outward indifference toward the senate deadlock posed a puzzle for those seeking to evaluate its strategy.

Interpretations varied widely. In some quarters observers were inclined to consider the White House at a loss for means to resolve the impasse. Others viewed the "patient waiting" attitude as deliberately undertaken with a weathered confidence.

Still others saw the situation as only "back to normal" with the executive and legislative branches having it out in the traditional manner.

Increased Restiveness
Restiveness in congress has become increasingly obvious. What extent this would reach and how much the administration would be willing to compromise to seek its broad objectives, were questions heightening the confusion.

For the immediate present, attention remained centered on the "prevailing wage" amendment to the $4,880,000,000 work relief bill. The senate Democratic leadership reiterated confidence it would be defeated, despite assertions of its advocates that they would reinstate it in the bill.

Whatever the outcome, the issue was conceded to be but a forerunner of what conceivably may come on such problems as the bonus, social security, NRA extension, banking and labor proposals, tightening of AAA, abolition of utility holding companies and inflation.

Situation Changed
Six weeks ago the consensus among incoming legislators—the November elections fresh in mind—was that the New Deal would have its way on those matters without undue difficulty. Today only the boldest forecasters would make specific predictions.

Seeking to account for the shift, leaders in both parties evidently traced it in part to the strenuous campaigns being waged by both left and right camps for their ideas and the consequent deluge of mail on the Capitol. Also, failure of the president to gain his point on the World Court and in the "prevailing wage" argument at the outset both had their effect, most observers thought.

The position into which Senator Huey Long has maneuvered himself, with his strictures on the administration and his "share the wealth" movement, appeared as a factor to be weighed.

Long Loses No Chances
For some time there have been predictions that Long and the Rev. Fr. Charles E. Coughlin had so much in common in the matter of economic doctrines that they may team up in an onslaught on the New Deal. However, observers noted today that, in his reply to Hugh S. Johnson's exhortation, the radio priest reaffirmed his 1932 slogan: "Roosevelt or Ruin." Senator Long loses no opportunity to attack Roosevelt.

Regardless of the reasons for what dissatisfaction exists, opponents of New Deal fundamentals in both parties have taken new heart. They have little tangible to show for their pains as yet, but are proceeding in a way that conceivably could rend both parties in the next presidential campaign.

How this or that vote goes will depend to a great extent it is expected on conditions and public sentiment at the time. Those factors, too, likely will govern whether the president will seek to exert more or less pressure at the Capitol.

For the present, the Democratic leadership contends he will adhere to his announced policy of going neither right nor left but "straight ahead," and keep "hands off" congress as concerns details of legislation.

Truck Conveying New Autos Bombed Today

Chicago, Mar. 13.—(AP)—Two men were injured when a pair of powder bombs exploded early today in a parked auto truck bound for East Moline, Ill., doing damage estimated at $500.

Lester Mudge, 25, Chicago truck driver, and Stephen Page, 21, suffered cuts and shock from the explosions. The four autos being transported on the truck were not damaged.

Mudge told police a truck he was driving was bombed similarly a month ago in Detroit.

COSTLY TRIAL

Trenton, N. J., March 13.—(AP)—It cost New Jersey $130,106.78 to try Bruno Richard Hauptmann.

Assistants to Attorney General David T. Wilentz appeared before the legislative appropriations committee, disclosing that the expenses of the trial at Flemington had exceeded the $50,000 allotted from special state funds by $80,106.78. It was suggested to the committee that the additional cost be made a special appropriation by the legislature as soon as possible.

Joseph Lanigan, Assistant Attorney General, told the committee that the Federal government had expended $800,000 and New York City $250,000 on investigation of the kidnaping of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr. The cost to the New Jersey state police, has never been made public.

Details of the cost of the trial were not made public but members remarked that fees for some expert witnesses were "very large."

FLOOD THREATS IN EGYPT GROW

Some State Highways in Section Closed Because of Dangers

FLOOD THREAT—Centralia, Ill., March 13.—(AP)—Leadens skies brought threat of more rains to the flood stricken sections of southern Illinois today where scores have fled from their homes to escape the high water. At Shawneetown, the Ohio river today reached a stage of 31 feet, a rise of 11 feet since Monday and at 35 feet the river will flood lowlands around Shawneetown, it was reported.

A crest of forty feet is expected at Shawneetown tomorrow. Both Illinois and Kentucky highways to Evansville, were under water today.

At Mt. Carmel, the Wabash river was lapping at flood stage of 16 feet, a rise of almost four feet in 24 hours. Additional light rains over the Wabash and White river valley added to the flood menace in that section. Rivermen predicted the Wabash would reach 26 feet.

Two Roads Closed.
State highway officials at Carbondale reported two stretches of roads closed by high water in that section today. They were U. S. route 45 north of Harrisburg and south of Texas City and the road between Oraville and state route 13. Flood waters had greatly reduced in the lowlands in Jackson county but the Big Muddy river continued to rise.

Traffic was halted between West Frankfort and Benton last night with more than a mile of the highway under water. Thousands of acres of bottom land were under water in Franklin county. The water was reported leaving North Harrisburg. Route thirteen was reported open today between Harrisburg and Carbondale.

The Kaskaskia river climbed two and one half feet from 3 P. M. yesterday to 7 A. M. today. The levees were still holding today, although thousands of acres of bottom land in that section was under water.

MANY LEAVE HOMES.
By The Associated Press.

Swirling flood waters of the Mississippi and its tributaries menaced homes in a half dozen states today while snow and rain storms swept across the south. Hundreds were driven from their homes in Illinois, Missouri and Mississippi by rising floods that crumbled levees of the St. Francis river, near Kennett, Mo., and threatened a widespread rampage.

National Guardsmen were ordered out in Missouri to help families evacuate the stricken area from which more than 500 fled as officials warned levees would break.

Anti-Long Bloc Being Organized in House for Purpose of Knocking Huey Over by Attack or Ridicule

Washington, March 13.—(AP)—Formation of an "anti-Long" bloc in the House of Representatives in an effort to whittle down the power of the Kingfisher either by direct attack or by ridicule was underway today.

The spearhead of the group is Rep. P. L. Glassaway (D-Okla.). Saying that Rep. Dies (D-Tex.) Rep. Disney (D-Okla.) and "12 or 15 others" are holding frequent consultations on the matter, Glassaway, wearer of the leather boots and string bow tie of the cow country, said:

"We are the meanest scoundrels in congress and we are damn tired of Huey's line of palaver. We are going to knock him over."

BRITISH AUTHOR FACES EVICTION BY GOVERNMENT

Strachey, Former Member of Parliament, Called Communistic Agent

Chicago, March 13.—(AP)—Declaring that he intended to make federal authorities prove their charges that he advocated the overthrow of the government by force, Evelyn John St. Loe Strachey, British author and lecturer, appeared at the immigration office today to arrange bond on a false entry charge.

Accompanied by two attorneys Strachey entered the office of Fred J. Schlotfeldt, district director of immigration and naturalization at 10 A. M. and immediately went into a secret conference.

Friends of the lecturer, a former member of the British Parliament, asserted that they expected him to have no difficulty in raising the $500 bond demanded last night after his arrest in Glencoe, where he had lectured.

Woman Offers Aid
A brief stir was caused a few minutes later by the excited arrival of a well dressed woman, who identified herself as Mrs. James P. Porter. To a group of reporters whom she later said she had taken for Strachey sympathizers she declared:

"This is an outrage! If Mr. Strachey needs money for bond I will supply whatever amount is asked."

Her offer was communicated to Schlotfeldt, who declared that he did not think Strachey would need to avail himself of the offer. Nevertheless, Mrs. Porter was invited to join the closed conference.

Another north shore woman was the next arrival, but her purpose was the opposite of that of her neighbor. She was Mrs. Albert W. Dillon, lecturer against Communism and active anti-radical. She carried an armful of Communistic and anti-Communistic literature which she asked to be permitted to lay before the immigration authorities.

Called "Advocation"
Selecting one publication, which she described as a Communistic organ, she quoted:

"Strachey is a forthright advocate of Communistic revolution."

Strachey's two attorneys, were identified by Hugh Miller, secretary of the Civil Liberties Union.

NEGRO FARMER LYNCHED: MISS. MOBSTERS QUIET

Prosecutor Promises Thorough Probe of Victim's Death

Slayden, Miss., March 13.—(AP)—Prosecuting Attorney E. C. Wright promised "a thorough investigation" today into the hanging near here last yesterday of Ab Young, young negro tenant farmer hunted since Saturday for shooting a white man.

Wright said the probable verdict of the coroner's jury would be death at the hands of "parties unknown." The inquest was called for today.

"Naturally," he said, "those who participated in the affair are not talking. Nobody we interviewed admitted knowing whether it was a suicide or a hanging."

Young was wanted by authorities in connection with the death of Harry Mackie, 45-year-old highway employe, who was said to have been shot by Young when he remonstrated with the negro for promiscuous firing of a pistol.

Young was seized near Rossville, Tenn., across the Mississippi line, yesterday afternoon and rushed to a spot two miles from Slayden by 50 men.

Permitted to sing a hymn and utter a prayer, Young was placed atop an automobile with a noose around his neck. One end of the rope was tied to a tree. His captors then drove the car from under him.

"See that hand there?" the congressman asked as he extended a tanned and gnarled fist. "See where those fingers were broken. I smashed my fist when I knicked out a feller years ago back home when he slandered Teddy Roosevelt. And Teddy was a Republican."

"We don't like for Long to keep attacking our president . . . and I don't have a bodyguard either."

"Do you carry a gun?" Glassaway was asked.

"Hell, no," he answered with a laugh.

Ridicule was the strategy advised by Disney for the combat with the Louisianan.

PLAN RETALIATION

Springfield, Ill., Mar. 13.—(AP)—Nineteen first-term Republican representatives today organized a bloc and threatened retaliation if the senate continues to hold up bills which they have introduced and which the house has passed.

The new Republican house members, meeting with Rep. LeRoy Green of Rockford, minority leader, said they would refuse to help furnish the necessary 102 votes on emergency bills from the senate if the upper house continues the delay.

Those participating in the meeting included Dineen of Decatur, Peters of St. Joseph, Wood of Joliet and Roberts of Chicago.

HORNER PLEADS FOR SPEEDY ACTION FOR RELIEF

Sends Message, Without Recommendations, to General Assembly

BULLETIN
Springfield, Ill., Mar. 13.—(AP)—In another bitter argument over relief reorganization, the house today decided to ask Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief administrator, whether the bills to dismantle the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission are workable.

Springfield, Ill., March 13.—(AP)—Asking "speedy and definite action on relief, Governor Horner today sent a message to the legislature explaining the agreement under which unemployment relief funds are furnished in Illinois by the federal government.

The message included a letter in which Howard O. Hunter of Chicago, regional representative for the federal emergency relief administration, said:

"It is assumed both by law and administration policy that the basic responsibility for financing relief needs rests with the state and local communities."

"Even though it is true that federal funds finance about 75 per cent of the total relief needs, nevertheless it still remains true that these federal funds are made as grants in aid to states rather than having states make grants to the FERA."

Expressed Surprise.
Horner expressed surprise at Republican statements that the legislature has "no official information" as to the amount of state funds required by Harry L. Hopkins, head of the FERA, before the federal government will contribute its share of the unemployment costs.

He referred to previous explanations of a conference with Hopkins at Washington last November at which $3,000,000 monthly was fixed as the state's share of relief.

The high spot on the day's calendar was house consideration of further amendments to the O'Neill and Lyons-Burns bills, proposing that relief funds should be spent at the direction of the county boards.

In the senate, which is expected to adopt its own relief program within a few weeks, two Republican suggestions on relief were introduced. They were:

Two G. O. P. Proposals.
A bill by George C. Dixon of Dixon to substitute a commission of seven, with limited powers, for the IERC and to give the county boards control over the relief rolls.

A resolution by Earl E. Searcy of Springfield, minority leader to accept responsibility for the care of "unemployable" persons and concur in President Roosevelt's suggestion that the federal government provide jobs for the "employables."

Both plans would center responsibility in the counties and townships, in line with legislative criticism that the relief commission has too many employes and spends too much money.

The senate, which concentrated its attention today at a hearing on an eight-hour-day-for-women bill, took no action on the Dixon and Searcy proposals.

Late Move Failed.
Late yesterday the upper house refused to advance a bill by Senator Simon E. Lantz, Conger-ville, Republican, to abolish the emergency relief commission and let the department of public welfare distribute funds to the idle.

The house judiciary committee favorably reported a bill to permit women to serve on juries. The Lyons bill to bar Communist tickets from Illinois ballots also received committee endorsement.

Sterling Woman and Son Reunited Today

Omaha, Neb., (AP)—Mrs. Selma Dow, Sterling, Ill., was reunited with her son, Oscar Nelson, whom she placed in an Omaha orphanage 25 years ago because of inability to support him. He was adopted by 25 years ago by Mrs. Minnie Nelson.

COMPROMISE ON BONUS OFFERED IN HOUSE TODAY

Proposal to Swap Bonds for Certificates Submitted by McReynolds

Washington, March 13.—(AP)—Another bonus compromise plan was advanced today as the rules committee prepared to decide the troublesome problem of how to let the house choose between the Patman and Vinson bills.

Rep. McReynolds (D-Tenn.) generally recognized as a "down-the-line" administration man, introduced the compromise proposal. He denied that it was an administration bill.

The rules committee was to decide how to get both the Vinson and the Patman bills before the house without giving either a strategic advantage. The first, approved by the ways and means committee, does not specify how the money should be raised to pay the $2,000,000,000 bonus. The second, rejected by the ways and means committee would issue new currency.

Would Swap Bonds
Both would pay, now, the full face value of adjusted compensation certificates. But the Tydings-McReynolds bill would swap negotiable government bonds for the certificates. If a veteran held the bond until 1945, he would get the full value of his certificate. If the bonds were sold now, he would not.

The Illinois house delegation stood 23 to one in favor of cash payments of the bonus, with Rep. D. C. Dobbins (D), Champaign, in opposition unless some means of paying it without currency inflation could be found. No expressions were gained from James A. Meek, Danville, or Michael Igou, Chicago.

SEEK PAYMENT INQUEST FEES FROM HOSPITAL

Supervisors May Act to Secure Remuneration from State

Members of the board of supervisors at the session this morning launched action to secure the payment by the state of expenses incurred in inquests conducted by Coroner Frank M. Banker over bodies of patients of the Dixon state hospital. Supervisor L. D. Hemenway of Steward introduced the subject and urged the board to insist that the state's attorney file claims for amounts expended by Lee county, amounting to several hundred dollars, for inquests over state hospital patients.

Supervisor Henry Kneisch of Paw Paw offered a motion that the subject be referred to the judiciary committee to confer with the state's attorney and Supervisor Gilbert Finch of Ambos added an amendment that the county prosecutor appear before the state court of claims if necessary to secure the payment of the amounts. Supervisor D. H. Spencer of Dixon informed the board that a bill for inquests had been filed with the court of claims at Springfield some time ago, but that no action had been taken.

The judiciary committee reported to the board this morning denying the application of Mrs. Mary Talmadge of Nelson township for a blind pension.

The report of Coroner Frank M. Banker of Franklin Grove, asking to turn over to the county treasurer the sum of $49, collected by him for inquests held, was received.

Lee County Men Plead Guilty in DeKalb Co.

(Telegraph Special Service.)
DeKalb, March 13.—Dale Stevens of West Brooklyn, Elmer Halvick of Steward and Floyd Wooten of Oskaloosa, Iowa, arrested early in the winter on charges of having forged the name of a Rochelle man to some checks which were passed in this city, appeared in the DeKalb county court Monday and pleaded guilty to charges of forgery. They were immediately placed on probation for a period of one year. The costs of the case, however, will have to be paid by the three young men, which amounted to $90.50 each. Arrangements were being made for the payment of the costs by the defendants, which will bring about their release.

Funeral of Henry Rae of Polo on Thursday

(Telegraph Special Service.)
Polo, March 13.—Funeral services for Henry Rae will be held at 2 p. m., Thursday from the Methodist Episcopal church at Polo, the Rev. L. R. Minion officiating. It was announced today that the burial will take place in Halvick cemetery.

SUGGESTS TOKENS

Springfield, Ill., March 13.—(AP)—Use of fractional-cent tokens in making change under the retail sales tax law was proposed today in a bill introduced by Senator Francis J. Loughran, Chicago Democrat, at the request of the state finance department.

Loughran, sponsor of the 1933 sales tax bill, proposed that the finance department sell tokens to be used in making change and be required to redeem them at face value at any time.

Tokens would be in denominations of one, two and five mills. The token plan has been under consideration for some time because of complaints that the sales tax cost of two per cent cannot be accurately charged on small purchases from retailers.

HAVANA CURFEW BROUGHT QUIET

Normal Activities Being Resumed in Capital of Cuba This Morn

(Copyright, 1935, By The Associated Press.)

Havana, March 13.—Enforcement of a drastic curfew law after an outbreak of violence in which 24 were injured had restored a degree of calm today to Havana's nerve wracked citizens.

The government expressed confidence the day would see the final collapse of the movement against President Carlos Mendieta's regime and that railroads and mail service would be in operation again by nightfall.

Col. Jose Perdraza, military governor of Havana province, invoked the 9 P. M. curfew law yesterday to check the tide of terrorism.

Citizens Stay Indoors

Announcement of the edict was followed by a terrific eruption of shooting and bombing. Then followed hours of desolate silence during which not more than 100 of the city's 600,000 residents appeared on the streets.

Twenty-two other persons were wounded by explosions in various sections of the city.

Finding of another body brought the last three days' death toll from violence to 13.

Soldiers and police sped about the city with sun-machine guns, rifles and pistols spitting lead as they strove to make the curfew order effective.

Had Tranquil Night
Eventually, the authorities' campaign to give Cuba's capital a tranquil night produced results.

Streets were deserted except for soldiers, sailors and police. Houses were shuttered and only a few were lighted.

Not a street car nor a bus was to be seen throughout the city.

Progressive Democrats in House See Threat of Discipline by Administration if They Join Bloc

Washington, March 13.—(AP)—House Progressives today read into a remark by Speaker Byrns a direct warning of disciplinary actions against any Democrats who stray into the new progressive bloc, which Byrns termed "the beginning of a third party movement."

The Speaker, asked what might happen to the 16 House Democrats who attended the first meeting of the bloc, replied:

"My guess would be that they might be called to account, understand, I don't say I would do that. I don't say that anybody would do that with my approval. But similar movements have been

UTILITIES ARE STRIKING BACK AT ROOSEVELT

Fight Over Holding Companies Becomes One of Capital's Hottest

Washington, March 13.—(AP)—The fight over public utility holding companies became one of the hottest raging in Washington today as utility executives struck back at President Roosevelt's charges of "propaganda."

One spokesman said the administration "disregards the pleas of the people" while another saw a "strain of malice" in the message which the president urged that control of utility operations be taken away from "a few corporate insiders" by ultimately abolishing all except "necessary" holding companies in this field.

Roosevelt had said that "far-fetched and fallacious fears" about the effect of pending holding company legislation are being spread. To this, Philip H. Gadsden, the chairman of the committee of public utility executives, replied:

Honest Endeavor
"The utilities have endeavored honestly to inform investors and the general public as to the disastrous effects of this legislation. We shall continue to urge them to express their opinion frankly and fully."

Gadsden added that "the destruction of the holding company as provided in the proposed public utility bill, is no longer a concern for the public utilities alone, but for all industry."

The president's message was acclaimed, meanwhile, by several Democratic leaders in congress and by Senator Norris, independent Republican of Nebraska. Norris proposed an investigation by the trade commission into alleged "propaganda" against the Wheeler-Rayburn holding company bill.

Mrs. Sherman Mick Died at Home of Her Daughter in DeKalb

Mrs. Ida Elizabeth Mick, wife of Sherman Mick passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. E. J. Myers of DeKalb, Tuesday, March 12. She was united in marriage to Sherman Mick, March 25, 1891, and for several years resided east of the city on the River road. She is survived by her husband and three children, Mrs. Blanch Myers of DeKalb, Lee and Clyde, both of Dixon, and five grandchildren. Funeral services will be conducted from the Staples chapel Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, Rev. H. W. Lambert, pastor of the Bethel Evangelical church officiating and with interment in Oakwood.

County Sues East St. Louis for Share of Cost of County Home

Belleville, Ill., March 13.—(AP)—The county has begun action to compel East St. Louis to pay $33,430 as its share of the cost of maintaining the county hospital here.

State's Attorney Louis P. Zerwek yesterday filed a petition for a writ of mandamus in Circuit Court demanding that the township board be required to levy a tax sufficient to make the payment. A hearing on the petition was set by Circuit Judge Maurice V. Joyce for Monday.

Illinois Men Claim Alibi in Bank Theft Charge in Colorado

Greeley, Colo., Mar. 13.—(AP)—Reginald Jewell, former night marshall at Royalton, Ill., and Grady (Red) Beason of Herrin, Ill., went on trial today accused of the daylight robbery of the Erie State bank at Erie, Colo., in which $20,000 was obtained Nov. 7, 1932.

The state's principal witnesses are employes and former employes of the bank, who were herded into the vault by two gunmen who fled with $10,000 in cash and $10,000 in bonds.

The defense called no witnesses from Illinois.

Attorneys said that Jewell and Beason were in the Royalton-Herrin section of Illinois when the robbery occurred.

They were arrested in January. Only part of the bonds stolen in the robbery have been recovered.

Horner Kills Bill
to Reduce Bonds of County Collectors

Springfield, Ill., Mar. 13—(AP)—Governor Horner today vetoed the Peffer-Pett-McCarthy bill reducing the bonds of county collectors, holding that it is objectionable on the ground that public welfare might be endangered.

It was the Governor's first veto of the 59th General Assembly.

The bill, by the three Kane county representatives, would fix the collectors' bonds at five per cent, rather than ten per cent, of the largest annual collection during the preceding three years, rather than five years.

It also repealed the provision that the bond be one and a half times the amount estimated by the county board as liable to be in the collector's hands.
Horner said it is "extremely unwise and hazardous to abandon the principle of adequately protecting public funds."

Holds Peoria Water
Co. Rate of Return on Investment Large

Chicago, March 13—(AP)—A declaration that a fair rate of return for the Peoria water works company is 5 1/2 per cent was made by Prof. Paul J. Raver, at an Illinois Commerce Commission hearing yesterday.

Raver, chief of the commission's research and rates division and head of the Northwestern University public utilities department, testified at a hearing to which the Peoria company had been summoned to show cause why its rates should not be reduced from the seven per cent return the company contends for.

But slight decrease in revenues has been apparent among water companies during the depression. Raver said a study disclosed, classifying water companies as among the most stable businesses. The hearing was held before Assistant Commissioner Robert H. Farrell.

Relief Clients in St.

Clair Co. Make Amends

Belleville, Ill., March 13—(AP)—The investigation of alleged relief frauds in St. Clair county has resulted in the repayment of $604 so far by relief clients. The smallest amount received was $2.46; the largest, $302.

Nine families have returned the full amount of the relief they received. Some others are paying definite sums at specified periods to square their accounts.

TOLEATION

By Joseph Fort Newton

R. JOHNSON, in his famous Dictionary, said that toleration, though a good word, was not much used. Today we might add that it is still a good word, but it is in danger of becoming obsolete.

The outbreak of violent, vindictive, ruthless intolerance in our day is one of the strangest things in our strange age. The mind-set of the time is all toward coercion and stern compulsion.

In other days men were often intolerant in religion; today, in Mexico, Russia and elsewhere, they are intolerant of religion, as if they wanted to destroy it from the face of the earth as a pest.

All the new forms of State, Communism, Fascism, Nazism, and the rest, are utterly intolerant in matters of religion, if not in race, and often in both, knocking people over the head who think otherwise.

Their idea is a race regimented under the new collective despotism, doing the goose-step at the bidding of a dictator, all wearing the same kind of shirts and thinking what they are told to think.

By contrast, with us much of what passes for toleration is simply a lazy, hazy indifference, an open-mindedness so open that ideas go in one ear and out the other—just mushiness of mind.

Today we seem to go from one extreme to another unable to strike a wise balance. We push truths so far that they become false; we have no standards, and a use of force betrays a loss of faith.

Toleration, to be sure, is a ticklish matter. If we let men think, they may not think as we do. They will divide and debate, and that may seem to weaken the state, the party, the church, the home.

No wonder tyrants are afraid of toleration, as they are afraid of liberty. But in the end only those who take the risks of toleration can know the truth and the freedom that truth bestows.

It is intolerance that rests upon uncertainty; every bigot is at bottom a skeptic. Only when love of truth is joined with love of men do we have true toleration, and the fruits of liberty.

Sixth grade Language Demonstration, "My Good Times Book"—Phyllis Gray.

Reading Lesson—Grade One. Piano solo—Kenneth Guntle.

Recitation, "The Flag"—Gerald Rineking.

Piano duet—Roy Whitney and Phyllis Gray.

Piano solo—Roy Whitney.

Piano solo—Phyllis Gray.

Piano duet—Billie Bieschke and Phyllis Gray.

Arithmetic Demonstration—Bud After these interesting numbers the president, Mrs. Bieschke conducted the business session, at which time Mr. Lewis gave the report of the nominating committee. The following officers were elected:

Pres.—Mrs. L. Guntle.

Vice Pres.—Mrs. L. Stevens.

Sec.—Marian Bieschke.

Treas.—Mrs. W. Morris.

The leaders for the evening were Frank Floto and Jess Gray, the topic "Educational Reconstruction." Questions had been given out to the following persons: Mrs. Whitney, Mr. Lewis, Mrs. Stevens, Mr. Whitney and Mrs. Lewis, who in turn gave their viewpoint, followed by open discussion under the splendid leadership of Frank Floto.

Mr. Jensen and Mr. Wallace of Dixon then furnished several musical numbers, using guitar, harmonica and castanets. To vary their program they furnished occasional vocal numbers.

The leaders are to be complimented for the fine program which they gave. It was instructive as well as entertaining.

The committee of young men served "cold crunches."

Sale of Tickets For Mischakoff's Concert Has Started

The sale of tickets for the Mischakoff concert to be held March 26th in the Masonic Temple, has started and it is hoped that all will take advantage of this opportunity to hear this wonderful Russian violinist. Some of his press comments are as follows:

"Mischakoff, concertmaster and violin master, exemplified true musicianship when he was heard in recital last night in Witherspoon hall. The Russian virtuoso displayed technique and tonal quality that seldom has been equalled. His program was well chosen and rendered with rare finesse. It was a brilliant evening for Mischakoff."—Philadelphia News.

"Mischakoff, concertmaster of the Philadelphia orchestra gave his first Philadelphia recital last night in Witherspoon hall and showed in it that a violinist can be both a great concertmaster and a great recitalist—and the two require essentially different qualities. Mr. Mischakoff showed perfect execution in the left hand, a splendid coordination of the fingers and the bow and a beautiful tone as well as great artistry. The large audience received the soloist with indications of approval his work deserved."—Philadelphia Ledger.

STATED MEETING OF EASTERN STAR FRIDAY EVENING

Convalescent

By Helen Welshimer

MY heart that had been ill is better now. Though not so strong as it had been before. It cannot stand bright pains that tear and plow. Or monotone of anguish any more. Resiliency is gone and now it must be pampered by such things as constancy. Now it accepts no verdict unless just. Its interest lags without activity.

NOT quite an invalid and yet too weak To stand the strain that passion does impose; Not interested, or brave enough to seek The answers to the riddles no one knows, It does relax, purged clean of rhyme or reason, And convalescing has a lovely season!

BASEBALL IN RUSSIA

Not the least interesting of recent dispatches from Russia is the announcement that the great American game of baseball is beginning to take hold in the land of the Soviets.

Already a national baseball league has been founded. Nine provincial cities have organized teams, and eight more are being organized in Moscow. A "baseball department" has been established in the supreme physical culture department, and the game is being introduced into the Red army.

It would be instructive to learn just why baseball catches on in some countries and not in others. It has swept Japan like wildfire, for instance; it is as popular in Cuba as in the United States and Canada, and it is making headway in other Latin American lands.

But Russia is the only European country, to date, to go for it. Why should this be? Certainly such countries as Japan, America, Cuba, and Russia have little in common. How come they all share a fondness for baseball?

STILL WAITING ACTION

If the people of this country ever really appreciate how terrible the auto traffic situation is, you will see a sudden flare of laws, regulations, and supervision more drastic than anything now dreamed of.

Take a current example. A 6-year-old Cleveland boy, excited and tickled because he is at last big enough to go to school makes it a point to hurry to the school house to be there in plenty of time.

One day he gets there ahead of time; the traffic officer detailed to the school intersection hasn't arrived.
The boy crosses, anyway—and a motor car kills him.

Now this sort of thing is almost too common to be worth mentioning. Yet when you stop to think about it you realize, all of a sudden, that it is the tragic product of a situation which is absolutely intolerable.

Why we continue to put up with it—why we don't get up on our hind legs and put this traffic juggernaut under control regardless of the cost or the difficulty—is the greatest mystery of the age.

MILLIONS FOR RELIEF

At the height of the Civil War, northern citizens learned with a shock of dismay that their government was spending $2,000,000 a day to carry on the fight.
Such expenditures, in that period, seemed astronomical—too big for the mind to grasp.

One wonders what those startled citizens would have thought if they had been told that eventually their government would spend two and one-half times that much merely to take care of the victims of unemployment.
They would have looked, probably, for the speedy end of the world.

Yet that is just what is happening. Relief Administrator Hopkins reveals that federal relief rolls are now carrying 22,000,000 persons, with daily expenditures for food and clothing of $5,000,000.

It is a tremendous, unheard-of load, this relief bill.
It has to be carried—but it is terribly obvious that it can't be carried forever.

PRICES KEEP GOING UP

Whatever may be happening to the recovery program as a whole, the cost of living seems to be making an extremely successful come back.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace himself predicts that meat prices will be up 32 percent by July 1. Porterhouse steak and bacon are apt to be classed as "company dishes" before the year is over.

The Republican Party has no more desire for recruits from the left wing of the Democratic Party than it has for those coming through the Liberty League.—

If our resources had been mobilized in the interest of the entire nation, we would not have needed any credit inflation.—Marriner S. Eccles, governor of the Federal Reserve Board.

The man who'd jumped out of the shell of Duncy's egg began to yell, "Oh, thank you, little fellow!
I am tickled to be free.

"All cooped up in an egg's no
fun. Now I can stretch and play and run. I hope that I can pay you back for what you've done for me."

Poor Duncy was a startled lad.
He thought, "Perhaps it is too bad that I walked up and took that great big egg out of the nest."
"The man seems quite a friendly sort. He may bring grief, or lots of sport. I cannot put him back,
now, though I try my very best."

Once more the man spoke. "Hey, there, son, let's start right up and have some fun. I am not going to hurt you, so you're in no awful fix."

"I hear some other people near.
Let's go to them, or call them here. Then, when we're all together, I will pull one of my tricks."

So Duncy led them 'cross the ground and shortly cried, "Look what I've found." The friendly giant shouted, "That's the magic Hindu man."

"You've pulled one of your crazy
stunts, but I'll forgive you lad, this once. Please do not break another egg until I say you can."

Then to the Hindu he cried out,
"You'll entertain these tots, no doubt. Well, hop right up on my big hand. Let's see what you can do."

"The Tinkies have seen stunts before, so you'd best have real stuff in store." "Don't worry," said the Hindu. "You'll be thrilled, when I am through."

And then the strange man bowed his head and took a deep breath. Then he said, "Now, watch me closely, everyone. I eat fire. That's no joke."

"In fact, I just have eaten
some, and from between my lips
'twill come." The next thing that the Tinkies knew, he blew forth fire and smoke.

LITTLE RED SCHOOL HOUSE BIG PROBLEM

Are Not Called As Efficient As Is Necessary

Springfield, Ill. Mar. 13.—(AP)—
The "little red school house" is as much a problem for the consideration of the educational commission, which held its organization meeting Tuesday, as is the financial plight of many of the larger school districts, according to data prepared by the Illinois state teachers' association.

Five of every six districts in the state have schools of but one teacher.

In a report on the "little red school house," L. R. Grimm, director of research and statistics for the teachers' association, says:

"In general the one teacher school does not prove efficient when compared with schools where there are enough pupils to justify the employment of several teachers.
But when we speak to parents of rural children about needed reorganization of the country school we often meet with an attitude of indifference toward our remarks.

"Too often the mere mention of abandoning the little red school sounds a discordant twang on the heartstrings of memory; for the educational experience of many of the older generation has been limited to the one-room school. The shortcomings of the same are not fully realized.

"Nevertheless, our small rural schools are producing a product inferior to the large urban schools."

Reasons assigned for inferior work of the "little red school house" included the teacher has too many grades to teach, the low salaries attract poorly prepared teachers, rural schools lack the supervision
given in the larger units, teaching tenure is shorter in the rural schools than elsewhere, school terms, in general, are shorter, the curriculum is meager, and physical conditions are inferior.

Among the 10,041 "little red school houses" in the state there are 4,184 with an enrollment of 15 or fewer pupils. In 183 districts no school was held, the number of pupils being so few that they were transported to adjacent districts.

If, however, the little red school house is considered a problem, so is the small high school.

Data showed that of 966 high schools reporting, 363 had an average attendance of less than 50 pupils, and 612 an attendance of less than 100.

It was found that the teachers of the small high schools, as a rule, do not have the preparation of those in the larger schools, that the small high school curriculum is deficient, that it is lacking in extra curricular facilities and that, as a result, graduates of these smaller high schools are handicapped in their college work.

Summarizing the findings regarding both the little red school house and the small high school,
the report states:

"There appear to be great social and economic and educational tendencies at work that must result inevitably toward the abandonment of thousands of school units in Illinois. The last few decades have witnessed the remarkable growth of cities and the dwindling of our rural population. Improved production on the farm and the wider use of mechanical power have caused fewer laborers to be needed on a given number of acres. Many of our small villages have virtually 'dried up.'"

"The average number of children in a family is decreasing according to decennial census reports. Developments in transportation have already been such that numerous children should be transported to better schools located at greater distances from their homes. The times demand an enriched curriculum for the country child. High school opportunities for country girls and boys must be provided. In brief, a study of centralization of schools involves socio-economic developments of our complex civilization."

"Some of these developments have already become marked. Yet we cling tenaciously to the tiny school district unit, for changes in our social institutions tend to lag behind our economic developments."

OWE LEE CO. $74,681.30

Springfield, Ill. Mar. 12.—(AP)—
Schools in Lee county have, overdue and in default from the state common school fund, a total of $74,681.30. The state still owes to Lee county $43,148.38 on the distribution for 1931, 1932 and 1933. This shortage is caused chiefly by delinquencies in Cook county on state

Parents War for Girl in Odd Case

Mrs. Simpson Patricia Gladys Simpson Simpson
A mother pitted against her husband and her own mother fights for custody of Patricia Gladys Simpson, 8, in a Kansas court battle of many peculiar angles. The father, Dr. G. G. Simpson, assistant curator of the American Museum of Natural History in New York, sued for custody of the girl by threatening to have the mother, Mrs.
Lydia Simpson, sent to an asylum, Mrs. Simpson charges. Mrs.
Simpson declares her husband later had her confined in a sanitarium, from which she escaped. The mother then went to Buffalo, Kan., where Patricia had been left with the grandmother, Mrs.
Mary Pedroja, and took the child, going to Topeka, resulting in the present legal battle.

taxes formerly levied on property.

On top of this comes a second deficiency. The state is running eight months late, on its state school fund paid out of the sales tax. It is delinquent $7,000,000 and Lee county's share of this, long overdue, should be $31,532.92. These two sums make the total of $74-681.30 due Lee county.

Adding insult to injury, so to speak, Cook county which is the primary cause of more than half of the trouble, is the only county in Illinois that has no important sum due from the state school fund
formerly raised by property taxes.

Cook county got most of "its"
share of all other counties by the clever expedient of getting its warrants, or orders, "in full" from the state and deducting most of its state school fund before turning over its tax collection to the state.
This was done in spite of the fact that Cook county has been a full year behind other parts of the state in tax payments.

Other counties, following the precedent of established custom, turned their tax collections over to the state expecting, as a matter of course, checks back for their share.
The share didn't come.

What this has done to the schools in downstate counties can best be shown by picking a typical example. West Frankfort, District
No. 68, is a fair sample of cause and effect. This district, while paying its teachers this year, is in trouble financially, slipping deeper and deeper in debt, and fast approaching a crisis. The teachers are paid only because it has borrowed $22,000 at the banks.

The reason for the District's tion $7.3 per cent; legal limit 5 per cent. Salary orders not cashable.

GALATIA—Staff of seven teachers cut to four; these on half salary. District owes teachers $5,000;
judgements, $9,000.

DOWELL—Staff of nine teachers
cut to six; salaries of those left, out 33 per cent. Warrants, $8,670;
unpaid teachers' orders, for salaries, $4,225; unsalable since 1932.

Eugene C. Eckert, principal of the Herrin Township high school, in a recent letter to a member of the legislature, wrote:

"Last week we lost one of our very best teachers. We had been paying him $125 a month in scrip.
Mt. Vernon, N. Y., is going to pay him $2,000 a year in cash. New York has a state distributive fund of $110,000,000. We are trying to get in Illinois a similar fund of only $30,000,000. This teacher had a master's degree and six years experience.

"Won't you please, in the interest of our boys and girls, do something in this session of the legislature to assure them the kind the schools
the constitution says they are supposed to have?"

FRUIT PRUNING DEMONSTRATION TO BE GIVEN

Horticultural Agent Will Conduct The Meeting

Pruning and spraying of orchard and garden fruits will be discussed and demonstrated at the J. W. Robbins fruit farm at Mt. Morris Thursday afternoon, March 14, at 1:30, in a meeting arranged by Farm Adviser, D. E. Warren, sponsored by the Ogle County Farm Bureau.

V. W. Kelley, horticultural extension specialist, University of Illinois, will be present to conduct the demonstration and will discuss any questions that those in attendance wish to bring up relative to practical farm fruit production.

The public is welcome to attend this meeting. It is for the purpose of assisting any one who is interested in raising fruits for family use.

DAILY HEALTH

DEALING WITH ECZEMA: I

Ecema is a comparatively common form of skin disease. Fundamentally it represents the inflammatory reaction of an especially sensitive skin to some provocative agent.

The cause of eczema is twofold, namely, an irritating agent, which is the exciting cause, and a peculiar predisposition of the skin to irritation. It is this special irritability of the skin which differentiates eczema from the simple acute skin inflammation like that due, say, to poison ivy.

Ecema is a chronic disease, the symptoms of which at times are mild and at others become acute.

The treatment of eczema is a highly complicated matter, calling for much careful study. For the treatment must take into consideration not only the specific exciting cause, but also predisposing causes and the condition of the eczema itself, that is, whether it is in a quiescent stage, acute, chronic, of the dry-crusty type, or the moist-weepy type. In the light of this, one can readily understand that any remedy which pretends to be a cure for eczema claims too much.

The exciting causes of eczema may be chemical, that is, may be in the nature of poisons, acids, alkalis, turpentine, strong soap, dyes, etc., or they may be mechanical as friction, scratching or pressure. Heat, light and varieties of dusts and foods, the latter belonging to the allergic group, may act as exciting causes.

The history of the eczema outbreak, its location, its nature, its association in time with certain changes, such as, for example, the use of new perfume, a new kind of soap, a different face powder, new gloves, furs, or beginning to work on a new object, may give important clues to the exciting cause.

Constitutional factors such as digestive disturbances, systemic disease, and focal infection, must also be sought for in the treatment of eczema. When these have been dealt with, there still remains the problem of local treatment, that is, treatment of the areas affected.

Stories in STAMPS

The Wizard Who CHAINED the ELEMENTS

NO wizard of old could have baffled the greatest intellects of his days more than did the Russian chemist, Dmitri Ivanovich Mendeleev, in the last century. For the greatest scientists doubted him when he predicted the existence of certain basic elements, then unknown, and described their characteristics. Their discovery vindicated this modern wizard and established his new theory by which he aligned the elements according to their atomic weights and classified them in groups, according to their relationships.

Lately Russia celebrated the 100th anniversary of Mendeleev's birth with a set of four stamps.

JUSTICE HOLMES: Yankee Philosopher

4. THOUGHT LAW MUST KEEP STEP WITH TIMES

(This is the fourth in a series of six daily articles.)

Washington—(AP)—Oliver Wendell Holmes made the bench a philosopher's stone by which he transmuted base metals of life into fine-spun gold.

His deep understanding, his broad views, his sharp mind, but notably his detachment from every day life accompanied by his keen insight into it—these were crucibles in which small facts were compounded into great principles.

He had served for 20 years on the Massachusetts bench and was nearing his sixty-second birthday when President Roosevelt called him in 1902 to the supreme tribunal of the land.

He was to labor there for 29 years, was to run his total judicial career into the fiftieth consecutive year, was to become the oldest man ever to have sat on that bench, but, greatest of all, was to show his measure as one of the master magistrates of all time.

Aware of Changes
His life span stretched for nearly two-thirds of the existence of the Supreme Court; his own service in that court constituted more than one-fifth of its active history; and it is estimated that he participated in more than one-third of the total number of decisions handed down since the court was formed.

One of the secrets of his greatness—his life spanning such a long and restless period of the nation's history—was his recognition that life and the times were always changing and that he and the law must keep in step.

He battled against accepting precedents, for precedents' sake alone, and once said: "Our forms of contract, instead of being made once for all, like a yacht, on lines of least resistance, are accidental relics of early notions."

According to Rules
As a judge he deemed that his "first business is to see that the games is played according to the rules, whether I like them or not."

He said in one of his opinions: "The interpretation of constitutional principles must not be too literal. We must remember that the machinery of government would not work if it were not allowed a little play in its joints."

Though noted for his independence of thought he felt that private opinions of a judge were not a measure of legality.

"It is a misfortune if a judge," he said, "reads his conscious or unconscious sympathy with one side or the other prematurely into the law..." And again: "We... need to learn to transcend our own convictions and to leave room for much that we hold dear to be done away with..."

As a judge he became an outstanding exponent of the constitutional guarantees affecting the rights of man.

The "Great Dissenter"
He called the constitution "an experiment, as all life is an experiment," and in his powerful dissent in the Rosika Schwimmer case—in which Mrs. Schwimmer was denied naturalization by the majority—he said:

"Surely it cannot show lack of attachment to the principles of the constitution that she thinks it can be improved. I suppose that most intelligent people think that it might be."

His role as "the great dissenter" was personally disliked by him.

His court life was not unlit by humor. He often would amuse his associates and spectators with a merry quip and on one occasion, when counsel was using rather indiscriminately the terms "realtor" and "real estate dealer" in arguing a case, the presiding officer, Chief Justice Taft, asked if there was any difference.

Holmes interrupted with: "A realtor gets a higher fee than a real estate man."

ONCE BEAUTIFUL GIRL TO SPEND LIFE IN PRISON

Laurel, Miss., March 13—(AP)—Guida Keeton, once a beautiful secretary Tuesday was convicted of the "butcher murder" of her widowed mother Mrs. Daisy Keeton and sentenced to spend the rest of her natural life in prison.

A jury, which received the case Monday afternoon, found the 33-year-old woman guilty "as charged" and recommended life imprisonment.

Judge W. Joe Pack, presiding in Jones county circuit court, immediately passed sentence.

Her eyes closed, her lips and face pallid, Guida showed no sign that she understood or even heard the verdict, or the sentence of the court.

Described as insane by her counsel and a number of physicians, Guida failed to impress the jury of Jones county farmers as insane despite her apparent helplessness in the courtroom during the two weeks of her trial.

She has lain limp in a wheelchair in the courtroom and each night was returned to the Laurel General Hospital where she has been confined for the past several weeks suffering from an apparent breakdown.

As soon as the sentence of the court was pronounced defense attorneys filed a motion for a new trial. Judge Pack set Saturday morning to hear arguments.

Sir Malcolm Campbell at wheel of record-breaking Hudson equipped with Electric Hand

SIR MALCOLM CAMPBELL PROVES PERFORMANCE AND RUGGEDNESS IN STOCK MODEL SEDAN

Again Hudson gives you proof of power, performance, ruggedness—instead of claims.

Speed—nearly a mile and a half a minute! Acceleration—and lightning fast shifting with the Electric Hand—a mile at 68.18 m.p.h. from a standing start! Ruggedness—a record in second gear at more than 70 m.p.h.—"a most savage punishment I ever gave a car," said the driver.

Remember, a stock Hudson sedan set these records—a car picked at random from a dealer's showroom by A.A.A. officials. Come in and see its duplicate. And, by all means, drive it before you decide on any car.

THE ELECTRIC HAND... Easier, safer driving... faster, smoother shifting, with both hands always on the wheel. An exclusive feature, standard on Hudson Custom Eight; optional (for small amount extra) on all other 1935 Hudsons.

BEIERS AND KNACKS WIN; END SEASON

Champs Drub I. N. U. 40-23; Knacks Take Colony

Commercial League hoop quintets ended their 1934-35 circuit competition last night on the high school floor, the Beiers champions adding another diamond to their crown by a 40-23 triumph over the I. N. U. and the Knacks Leaders thumping the Dixon State Hospital 52-34 in a free-scoring game.

After the first period in which only five points were made between the two clubs, the Beiers experienced little trouble with the I. N. U. men. Lebre of the Utilities quit deadlocked the score 2-2 by flipping in a goal after the Beiers had assumed the lead on two gift shots by Flanagan and Hilliker. O'Malley gave the I. N. U. a 3-2 margin at the end of the first frame by sinking a charity shot. Thereafter the Utilities team had little chance.

Paced by Flanagan and Bellows who scored fourteen and twelve points respectively the Beiers ran up a big lead. The Loafers were particularly hot on their free shots missing only three out of sixteen attempts, an unusual record. The I. N. U.'s average on free chances was about average. They missed three out of six tries.

Although leading only 16 to 11 at half time the heaviest Beier's assault on the basket came in the latter half in which they limited the I. N. U. to three goals and a free throw.

KNACKS WIN 52-34

Although the Knacks Leaders conquered the Dixon State Hospital team 52-34, the score does not indicate the continual threat the Staters presented the Blue and Gold Ave.

The Hospital team, for the first time since its reinforcement with members of the Dixon Dreadnaughts, was composed predominantly of the latter outfit. Only two hospital players, "Bing" Miller, and Windmiller were in the lineup. Although trailing the entire game except for the opening basket scored by Watts, the losers kept the Leaders on the run never falling behind more than seven points until the third quarter. At half time the Knacks spurred to increase their lead 22-14.

The Knacks ran up a 31-17 advantage in the third frame before the Staters got underway again. But a pair of baskets by "Pony" Underwood who played in the Hospital lineup, a pair by "Robbin" Curtis, and a basket and three gift shots contributed by Windmiller provided a stirring rally on the part of the losers which pared the Knacks margin to 33-27. At this point however, Kays, Barrowman, "Shires" Miller and Kehrt, trained their siege guns on the rim and the Blues ran away with the game.

Underwood bolstered the hospital's lineup in the absence of Mansfield and did a sterling job. He sank 15 points and Windmiller, always an offensive cog in the Stater machine not thirteen. "Shires" Miller snared fourteen for the Knacks.

Underwood Lands Berth On All-Conference Prep Hoop Team; Coaches Poll

Rebuck Chosen For Second Team Position

"Pony" Underwood, Dixon high school's highest scoring basketball forward, has been chosen for a position on the All-Conference hoop team picked by a vote of North Central Illinois prep league coaches. The poll was sponsored by the Belvidere Daily Republican.

The personnel which includes members from four of the six loop teams lists:

Underwood, Dixon, forward.
Nesheim, Rochelle, forward.
Terwilliger, DeKalb, center.
Koski, DeKalb, guard.
Tower, Mendota, guard.

Voting was conducted by the mailing of ballots to the several coaches. Choices were also to be made for a second team and three from each team to be nominated for the honorable mention rank.

First team selections counted three points, second team choices, two points and honorable mention, one point. The team chosen was unquestionably the most representative coaches could possibly pick. Each member of the All-Conference team possesses basket shooting skill, good passing, and personal qualities of leadership and congeniality with team mates.

Comments

Following are the comments of the Republican on the various choices:

Underwood — The leading scorer in the Conference and Dixon's main threat during the past four years. A speedy, aggressive forward with an exceptionally accurate eye for the hoop. A good passer with high ability as a leader and team player. One point behind Terwilliger in number of votes polled.

Nesheim — Although the final statistics for the season are not yet available, this brilliant Rochelle forward will probably rank close behind Underwood in number of points scored. Only one point separated the two men at the end of the first round, Underwood having 50 points and Nesheim 49. Nesheim is an excellent passer and gets off his pivot shots with as much success as any forward in the league.

Terwilliger — The fact that Terwilliger polled a unanimous vote of that most critical body, the coaches themselves, speaks for itself. A type of player to delight the heart of any coach. Tall and rangy, with an ideal basketball build. A fine passer and feeder with a great eye for the hoop when he chooses to shoot. Consistently outjumps any man in the conference a factor which has had much to do with his team's winning its second consecutive championship. Will be back to bother opposing teams for another year.

Koski — Another Barb who has "it" in the way of basketball ability. Coach Drew of DeKalb rates Koski as one of the biggest personal assets in DeKalb's successful flag drive. With Koski and Terwilliger, the likelihood candidates appear to be ex-champion Primo Carnera and Max Schmeling, who stopped Steve Hamas in Germany Sunday. Baer has beaten both Carnera and Schmeling.

Nurses will find Record Sheets at The B. P. Shaw Printing Co.

(both are six-footers) in the middle of the Barb defense, opposing teams are given little opportunity to score on under-the-basket attempts. He ranks high among the scoring guards.

Tower — A great player who has been doomed to relative obscurity by the weakness of the rest of his team. Ruggedly built, speedy, and a scrapper of the highest order. Tower has been the backbone of the Mendota squad. Without the steady influence of their fighting captain it is probable that Mendota would have been snowed under by the other more powerful conference fives. Plays both forward and center.

Second Team Choices

The second team choices are as follows:

Schrader, Belvidere and E. Swanson, DeKalb, forwards; Rebuck, Dixon, center; Davidson, Sterling, and Vipond, Sterling, guards.

Those winning honorable mention include Haas, Rochelle, forward; Long, Sterling, center; Newman, Belvidere, guard and Schaefer, Belvidere, forward.

FILLIES HAVE NOT FARED SO WELL IN DERBY

New York, March 13—(AP)—Owners of thoroughbred horses are beginning to realize there is virtually no chance for a filly to win the Kentucky Derby.

From the fine crop of female racers in last year's juvenile ranks only one outstanding filly, Calumet Farm's Nellie Flag, was nominated for the 1935 derby. Regret was the only filly to win the classic and that was 20 years ago.

Nellie Flag, the champion filly of 1934, won $57,240 in stakes and purses, but the defeat of the highly favored Mata Hari and Bazaar in last year's race is an indication of the task which faces her.

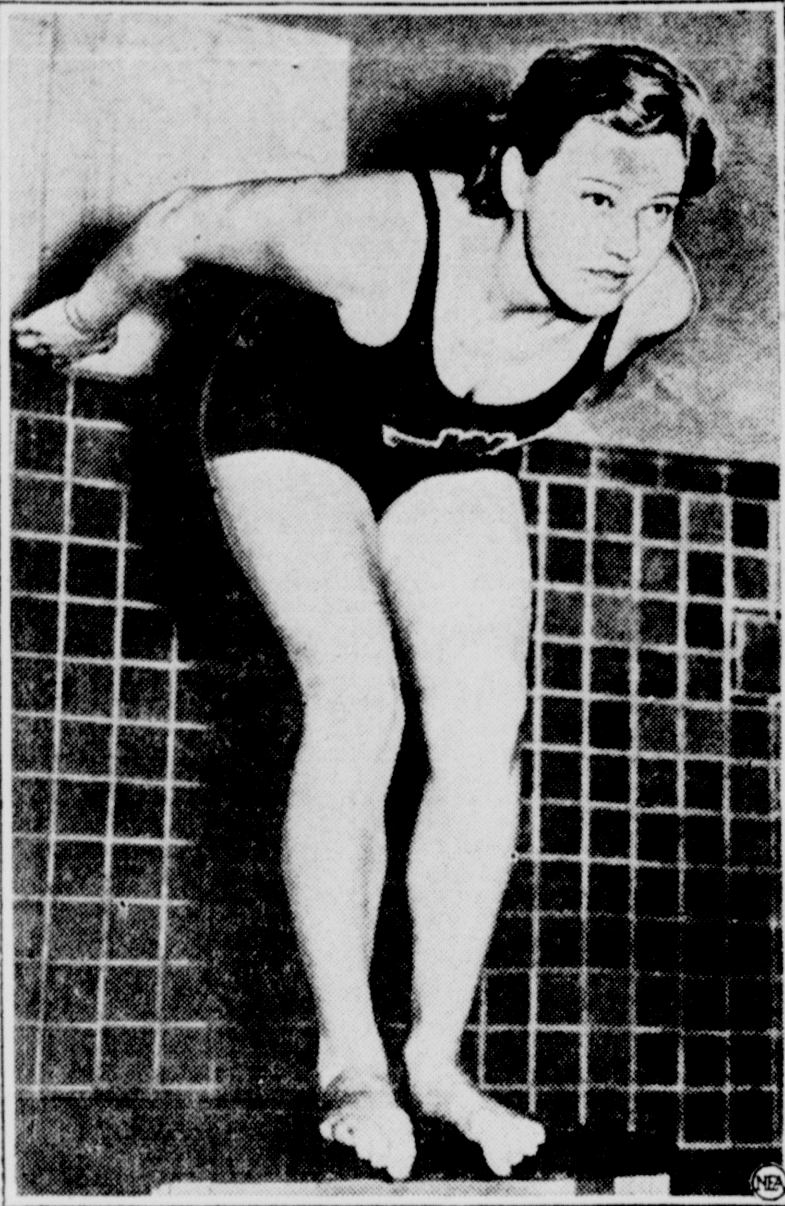

Leading fillies of 1934 which were not nominated for the 1935 derby were Toro Nancy, winner of $44,325; Motto, winner of $28,560; Go Quick, $15,100; Hasty Glance, $11,850, and Col. E. R. Bradley's Black Helen, which won the Florida Derby last Saturday.

When Regret won in 1915, she carried only 112 pounds. That was before the derby weights were standardized at 126 pounds for colts and gelding and 121 for fillies.

True, the highest weight in the field Regret defeated was 117 pounds, so she had the same 3-pound advantage that fillies now have over derby colts. There is a great difference, however, between fillies carrying 112 and 121 pounds in the spring, when they cannot be in their best form.

Derby weights were standardized in 1920. Since then only one filly, Prudery, which ran third in 1921, has finished in the money. Even before the weights were upped, only one filly won, one ran second and four ran third.

YANKS TO MISS VETERAN RUTH AS RACE NEARS

McCarthy Thinks He Was Greatest of All Time

(Note: This is the third of a series of stories giving first hand impressions and outlining the prospects of major league baseball clubs for the coming season.)

BY ALAN GOULD.
Associated Press Sports Editor, St. Petersburg, Fla., March 13.

—(AP)—The Yankees, without Babe Ruth, look strange and a bit lonesome, for all the briskness

they are generating for the coming American league pennant chase.

The separation of the "inseparables" no doubt was inevitable, under the circumstances, yet they can't quite forget the old "Bam," whether his presence this year would have made any difference in the team's championship prospects.

"Frankly and fairly," Manager Joe McCarthy says, "we will miss Ruth a great deal. He gave us a lot of help last season, all things considered, and I wish him the best luck with the Braves. When a player like the Babe goes, it's idle to talk of filling his place. You can't replace ball players like the big fellow. I doubt if we ever see his equal again. To my way of thinking he was the greatest all around player, as well as the greatest of all time. I would rate him in front of Ty Cobb or anyone else."

Yanks Merely Youngsters.

It has taken the passing of Ruth to emphasize that the Yankees again are mainly a team of ambitious youngsters, with reputations to make and perhaps to win.

BASKETBALL SCORES

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Yesterday's Results:
New York (N) 1; St. Louis (A) 0.
St. Louis (N) 9; Philadelphia (N) 6.

Today's Schedule:
At Miami Beach: New York (N) vs Boston (A).
At Bradenton: St. Louis (N) vs Philadelphia (A).
At New Orleans: Cleveland (A) vs New Orleans (SA).

Of the heroes of the 1932 championship club, only the Babe and Herb Pennock are gone but the roster lists only four players 30 years of age or older. Tony Lazzeri, Earle Combs and Lou Gehrig are the only survivors of earlier pennant days.

It is now in the main McCarthy's club, "Marse Joe," starting his fifth year as pilot, has developed almost the entire pitching staff. Big Charley Ruffing is the only hurler who came ready made. Blazing Ben Chapman, an infielder when McCarthy took charge, has been converted into one of the game's best center fielders and now threatens also to become a turn around hitter.

Frankie Crosetti at short and now Robert (Red) Rolfe, slated to play third, have been developed to snare the infield assignments, with Lazzeri and Gehrig. George Selkirk has shown so much ability, in a comparatively brief trial, that he will take over the Babe's old post in right field. Selkirk, fast and a ball hawk, hit 313 last year, 25 points above Ruth.

Will Be Near Top.

There won't be any question about the Yankees being 1-2 in the pennant race if McCarthy can find the answer to his pitching problems as quickly as he has settled other player issues. Earle Combs, completely and amazingly recovered from a fractured skull sustained when he crashed into the wall at St. Louis last summer, will play left field. Bill Dickey, sound of health again, eliminated any concern about the back stopping.

The pitching staff headed by the great Vernon (Lefty) Gomez figures to be one of the best in the league, despite some uncertainties. Gomez and Red Ruffing won 45 ball games last year. No more could have been asked of them and if they can repeat, the Yankees will be hard for the Tigers or any other club to stop.

Supervisors Also Vote Junction Road Into County's System

A delegation of officers of the Lee County Home Bureau attended the meeting of the Lee County board of supervisors yesterday afternoon and requested an appropriation of $50 to be used in maintaining their organization in Lee county. Mrs. Carl Ackert was the first member of the delegation to address the board and she was followed by two others who explained various phases of the program and furnished a report of the financial condition of the organization, all answering numerous questions put by the supervisors.

Mrs. Ackert expressed the appreciation of the Home Bureau for the appropriation of $250 made last year by the board, then outlined the purposes and program of the organization and its service to its members. She pointed out that the county organization during the past two years has paid nothing for the services of the county advisor, whose salary has been paid out of the fund allocated by the federal and state governments for this purpose. In making a request for an appropriation of $500 for the organization, Mrs. Ackert urged the supervisors to consider the value of the Home Bureau in drafting the county budget for the next year.

Seek 400 Members
The county organization has a membership of 217 at the present time and is working toward a goal of 400. It was explained to the board members. The application for the appropriation was referred to the educational committee to report at this session.

Dr. A. Yazarian of this city appeared before the board with a claim in the sum of $75 for expert medical testimony in an insanity hearing before Judge Leach in the county court several months ago. The bill had been rejected by the claims committee on several occasions when it was not approved by any county officer. The practitioner spoke at some length in explaining his claim, stating that he gave expert medical testimony in the county court at a sanity hearing, but was unable to inform the supervisors, who questioned him, who ordered his presence in the court on that occasion. After considerable explanation and questioning, the practitioner informed the board that he was ready to effect a compromise with the claims committee. He was instructed to present an approved claim to the committee, after submitting his bill to County Judge William L. Leach, before further consideration would be given.

Junction Road Voted
Assistant Supervisor Leon Garrison who last fall led an effort to have the road extending from the Lincoln Highway, east through Swissville and connecting with state route 26 at the junction with the Lowell park road, included in the county's state aid road system, won his action shortly before the board adjourned yesterday afternoon. A resolution providing for the addition to the county's system was presented and was adopted without opposition.

Another resolution which was unopposed, provided for the appropriation of the sum of $38,763.80 of Lee county's share of the gasoline tax refund to be expended upon the construction of the West Brooklyn spur from the village to a point north of the intersection with the Chicago road. The resolution provided for 18-foot paving within the village, together with the necessary gutters and sidewalks and a ten foot cement slab with gravel shoulder north of the village.

Scientist Thinks Gnats Cause of Infantile Paralysis

Copenhagen, March 13—(AP)—A theory that gnats spread infantile paralysis was advanced today by Dr. Hjalmar Wennerberg, chief of the Gothenburg, Sweden, hospital for epidemic illnesses. The Swedish scientist stated in an interview: "Although unable directly to prove the theory, I believe the conclusion is justified because while Gothenburg was ravaged with infantile paralysis in September and October, 1934, with 31 deaths, there was a coincidental visit of swarms of gnats penetrating the houses."

Danish scientists said they did not share the gnat theory, claiming that infantile paralysis contagion was due to impure food.

Widow of Republican Solon Awarded $3500

Springfield, Ill., Mar. 13—(AP)—The house Tuesday voted $3,500 to Mrs. W. B. Douglas, widow of a Chicago Republican Negro who was elected to the legislature but died before he started to serve his term.

The $3,500 represents the salary Douglas would have received. Mrs. Helen E. Pomeroy, widow of H. Sterling Pomeroy, City Judge at Kewanee, was voted $750, the amount of salary which would have been paid her husband from the time of his death to the expiration of his term.

R. W. Griffith, judge of the City Court of Grant City, was voted $7,883.33, the difference between the salary appropriated him and the amount he is entitled to draw. These three bills require senate action.

Liquor Runner Who Injured Wife to Cell

Danville, Ill., March 13—(AP)—An automobile accident last November in which his wife received injuries that may make her an invalid for life has resulted in a prison sentence for Harry Sullivan of Louisville, Ky.

Sullivan pleaded guilty in federal court, admitting he had 10 gallons of illicit alcohol in his car when it was wrecked and burned near Kankakee.

Federal agents, pursuing him at the time, salvaged a small quantity of the liquor and arrested Sullivan, who had been a Louisville city employee for 13 years. He was sentenced by Judge Fred L. Wham to serve a year and a day in the federal reformatory at Chillicothe, O. Mrs. Sullivan is still confined to a Kankakee hospital.

SUGGEST ADULT STUDY CLASSES BE FORMED HERE

Dixon Urged to Accept $500 Monthly Federal Allotment

James A. Meade of Western Springs, Ill., state supervisor of workers' education, is spending today in Dixon in conference with Superintendent A. H. Lancaster of the Dixon public schools and members of the board of education to ascertain the possibilities of opening one of the state-wide adult study courses in this city for which the sum of $500 monthly is now available from a federal allocation. The federal government appropriates to the state of Illinois the sum of $150,000 monthly to be used in either nursery schools or adult education and Lee county's allotment amounts to $500 monthly, the supervisor explained.

In conference with County Superintendent L. W. Miller yesterday afternoon, the free educational plan was given the hearty support of Superintendent Miller who enthusiastically commended the merits of such a course.

"It will be necessary for the head of the schools of Dixon to file an application project as is customary under any other federal project. A suitable location must be provided and there is no doubt but that the project will be readily approved. We are not trying to force anything on the public, but believe that this is an opportunity for the adults of Dixon, men and women in all walks of life and professions, to assemble and benefit their minds by study and education." This was the introductory statement of Supervisor Meade in outlining the plan.

Teachers who are unemployed will instruct the classes and there must be 20 hours of teaching each week. The course is to be determined as the result of the public demand and the minimum class membership is ten. Five percent of the amount of the appropriation may be used for supplies but the remainder must be used in paying the salary of the instructors, whose maximum pay is $100 per month. In Dixon the supervisor suggested a general course in adult education, and added that there will be no expense to those enrolling in the classes.

After graduating from West Point in 1828, Jefferson Davis remained in the army seven years. While serving in Wisconsin a severe attack of pneumonia left him with a facial neuralgia that often incapacitated and sometimes blinded him. After his election to the United States Senate he suffered considerably from poor health and according to "Jefferson Davis, Political Soldier," by Elizabeth Cutting, he "eventually lost the sight of one eye."

The case of diaphragmatic hernia is one of the strangest ever found.

Fate of IERC to be Left to Ill. Senate

Springfield, Ill., March 13—(AP)—Official silence concerning the administration's relief plans continued today, while reports circulated that the preponderantly Democratic senate would be given the job of deciding what should be done with the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission.

Governor Horner issued no statement concerning his conference last night with Mayor Kelly of Chicago. It was understood that they had discussed relief.

The house took no action on relief, adjourning at noon to await tomorrow's sessions at which further amendments will be considered to the O'Neill and Lyons-Burns bills abolishing and curtailing the authority of the relief commission.

Unverified reports were that the house would be allowed to send one of the bills to the senate, where a Democratic program on the administration and financing of relief could be mapped out later.

OBITUARY

MRS. HERMAN HUGHES

(Contributed)
Clara P. Bunnell, daughter of Benjamin L. and Louisa E. Bunnell, was born November 12, 1873, near Dixon, Illinois. Several years after being graduated from the Dixon high school, October 6, 1897 she was united in marriage to Herman J. Hughes. To this happy union were born five children. Two, Robert and Louise, preceded her in death.

She was converted in early life. Twenty-six years ago, she with her husband united with the Grace Evangelical church where she faithfully performed her part, sometimes even beyond her physical strength. But she loved the church and was willing to make any sacrifice necessary for Kingdom building. At the time of her home-going she was the most acceptable teacher of the Golden Rule Circle Sunday school class, which feels the loss keenly.

An outstanding trait of her character was her wisdom in choosing the right and then her courage to stand for that decision. Mrs. Hughes passed to her eternal home on Thursday evening, March 7, 1935 at 5:45. She will be greatly missed in the home, in her church and community. Those who remain to mourn her departure are her sorrow-stricken husband, one son, Harold B. of Dixon; two daughters, Mrs. B. B. Feik of Chicago, and Mrs. L. S. Glessner of Dixon and a host of other relatives and friends.

A large company of relatives and friends who filled the church, gathered on Saturday afternoon, March 9 at 2 o'clock for the service. The pastor, Rev. A. D. Shaffer, conducted the service, assisted by Rev. Isaac Divan and Rev. H. W. Lambert of Bethel church. Interment was made in Oakwood cemetery.

SHED THEIR WOOL

Porpoises and whales are covered with wool before birth, but, having no use for it afterward, nature causes it to disappear. The same is true, in a slight degree, of human infants, who frequently have much more hair when they come into the world than they do a week or two later.

D. H. S. JUNIORS PRESENT ANNUAL PLAY THIS WEEK

"Tweedles," Play of New England, Chosen for Two Performances

Quaint scenes of a New England seaside village will be transferred to the middlewest, Friday and Saturday nights, and Yankee romance will bloom profusely inside the walls of a twentieth century high school building.

Members of the Junior class of Dixon high will present the comedy drama, "Tweedles," the performance beginning each night at 8 P. M. sharp, and a large attendance is expected to see the production. "Tweedles," a comedy in three acts, involves the bashful attempts of a dreamy boy to woo the girl of his choice. Before the youthful hero wins his lovely bride, he encounters strong opposition from almost everyone with whom he is thrown. The situations in which he and the heroine are placed offer the opportunity for several excellent character roles.

Tea Room is Plot Scene

The scene of the plot is laid in the antique shoppe and tea room of the old Tweedle residence, an old house in a New England seaside village. The students in charge of the production have spared no attempts to collect a vast quantity of antique furniture, china, glass, pewter, and old portraits. The setting is made still more realistic by the addition of an old spinning wheel, and chairs and tables of colonial days.

A capable business staff is completing preparations for the first presentation, Friday night. Georgiana Shaw is property manager and has been engaged most of the week collecting antiques. Dorothy Armstrong is general production manager and Edward Cooper is stage-hand and carpenter. Electricians in charge of lighting effects are Lewis Wilhelm and Walter Gasser. Orville Westger's orchestra will furnish the music.

Cast Announced

The cast of characters for the play are:
Mrs. Ricketts... May Louise Eichler and Eleanor Sterling
Mrs. Albergone... Betty Jane Senneff
Winsora Tweedle... Ruby Grimes
Mr. Castlebury... Robert Stitzel
Mrs. Castlebury... Jean Bovey
Julian Castlebury... Theodore Stansell

Perennials

IF YOU find that any of your perennials have been lifted out of the ground by the frost, they should be pressed back with the feet or lifted entirely and replanted.

VERBENAS are coming back again into popular favor. While strictly it is a perennial, it is mostly planted as an annual. It grows well in most locations and requires little water.

IF ANY of your hardy vines have been winter killed, use annuals for this summer while the replacements are growing through their first year.

FOR A perennial background there is nothing more attractive than Delphinium. Their tall graceful spikes and exquisite color add charm and delicacy to any garden. If seed is planted it should be put in the ground early as it germinates best in a ground temperature of forty-five to fifty-five degrees.

LONG narrow border hedges can be made very attractive by a mixing of perennials and annuals giving special attention to the time of flowering so as to have continuous bloom.

IF YOU want the very large-sized dahlias only allow one stalk to develop. Do not plant dahlias too close to shrubbery and fertilize well.

IN TRANSPLANTING seedlings, move the stronger plants first so as to give better opportunity for the weaker ones to come through. An old kitchen fork is an excellent tool for this purpose.

FREQUENT picking of the flowers of pansies prolongs their period of bloom. Although the pansy is a perennial it is better to set out young plants each spring.

A GOOD RULE to follow in planting perennials is to place them a little closer than half their own height. Plants growing two feet or so high, should be a foot apart.

Johnson, Coughlin, Long, Just Big Wind

Washington, March 13—(AP)—To H. G. Wells, General Hugh S. Johnson, Senator Huey P. Long and Father Charles E. Coughlin are like "great winds blowing across the nation."

"I don't know which way these winds are blowing yet," the British author said on his arrival here Tuesday, "but they are very interesting and I hope to learn something of their meaning and importance while I am in this country."

He said he hoped to talk to all these, as well as Doctor F. E. Townsend, author of the Townsend old age pension plan, while in this country.

CHAPTER XLVIII

LETTERS, telegrams and a sheaf of mimeographed pages were spread over the big desk. The ornamental paper weight and the silver ash tray had been pushed aside to make way for a folder, bulky stuffed with manuscripts.

The memorandum pad was scrawled with notations. The pens in their holder were moist with ink. And the telephone was ringing.

Brian Westmore turned from the figures he had been reading and took up the telephone. "Yes," he said crisply. "I want that New York call as soon as you can get it. I want to talk to McNea himself. Yes, that's right. Keep trying until you get him."

The telephone snapped back in to place. Brian picked up the sheet of figures again, read them. He reached for a pencil, made some notes on a pad and studied them thoughtfully.

It had been two weeks, exactly since Brian had moved into the office that had been Thatcher's. There were two lines of black lettering on the door leading into the office. The lower one was just as it had been, but the one above had been changed. The lettering on the door now read, "Brian Westmore, general manager."

The two weeks had been trying strenuous. Brian had tackled them manfully, had fought his way through. There had been difficulties—serious ones—until it had been demonstrated, clearly and beyond dispute, that the policies Robert Thatcher had been carrying on in the mill were entirely his own, without the knowledge or consent of the owners.

Thatcher and his daughter, so reports had it, were in Canada or by this time they might be somewhere else. Brian, knowing what he did of Thatcher's affairs was certain that, having made the trip out of the country safely there was little likelihood that they would return. At least not for a long while.

That part of the affair was probably for the best—though Brian had not thought so at the time. He had regretted bitterly because he was unable to face Robert Thatcher and tell him in blaring, unforgettable language, exactly what he thought of him.

Brian yearned for vengeance for the way he himself had been treated at the mill, for having been pushed aside and ignored, for the misrepresentations and falsehoods Thatcher had uttered so smoothly. The man was a thief filling his pockets at the expense of hundreds of hard-working employees, as well as of Brian and his mother. Thatcher had done even worse things. There was the death of Steve Meyers. No one was sure of Thatcher's part in that but he had saved himself considerable embarrassment by getting out of the country. The investigation of that outrage was going on quietly. It was likely to bring indictments. Brian was determined to do everything he could to bring the guilty ones to justice.

Mrs. Louise Hunt came the first of the past week from Pine River,

There was one consolation he enjoyed. Brian knew that Thatcher, for all his thievery and money-grubbing, had been able to take little with him on his hurried departure. The man who had worshipped gold had lost his idol.

The telephone on Brian's desk rang again and he picked it up. He listened, said, "Oh, yes. Ask her to come in, will you?"

When, a moment later, the door opened and Gale Henderson stood on the threshold Brian was entirely the executive, clear-eyed impersonal.

Gale said, "You sent for me?"

"Yes. Won't you come in?"

She closed the door behind her. Brian, without rising, motioned her to a chair. He went on, "Yes, I wanted to talk to you. We're making a number of changes in the mill, as you may know—rearranging schedules, adding employees, letting some go."

Gale nodded. "I want to thank you," she said, "for taking my brother back."

Brian waved this aside. "I understand he's a good workman. We need more of them. We're taking back as many as

1. Corinthians XV Rev. L. V. Sittler
Obituary Rev. A. S. Tavenner
Vocal solo, "The Land Where the Roses Never Fade" Rev. L. V. Sittler

Sermon, "In My Father's House are Many Mansions" Rev. L. E. Winter
Farewell Rev. I. E. Honeywell
Lead Kindly Light" Male Quartette

Recessional, "Funeral March" Mendelssohn
One who never turned his back but marched breast forward,
Never doubted clouds would break,
Never dreamed, that right were wrong,
Held we fall to rise, are baffled to fight better,
Sleep to wake.

No, at noonday in the bustle of man's work-time,
Greet the unseen with a cheer!
Bid him forward, breast and back as either should be,
"Strive and thrive!" Cry, "Speed fight on, fare ever—
There as here!"

Obituary
Andrew Franklin Dierdorff was born on the family farm a mile north of Franklin Grove, Ill. on March 23, 1863, fifth son and seventh child of Henry Dierdorff and Suzanna Mummert Dierdorff. His parents were Pennsylvania Dutch who had emigrated in a covered wagon on their wedding trip from Adams County Penn., to Lee county in 1853. The early members of the family had been among the first members of the Brethren church when it was organized in Germany and had come to America in 1729. His grandfather, Andrew, was an organizer and elder of the Rock River church, who enjoyed riding through this county behind his old white horse Bonny, where he could call on all but two of his ten children and his forty-two grandchildren.

He attended the Pine View school from the time he was four years old. When he was a young man he learned the tinner's trade with his cousin at Stanwood, Iowa. Aside from this period and one summer in South Dakota, his entire life was spent at Franklin Grove.

On May 5, 1886 he was married to Anna Mathe of this place, in a ceremony performed by his uncle, Elder Daniel Dierdorff, who was noted for the number of marriages which he performed and for the advice he gave to the couples. He united they went to housekeeping on the same day in a home which they had prepared.

To them was born one son, Sept. 22, 1890, Lee Henry Dierdorff, who was named for a beloved hardware salesman, Robert Lee Morton.

About the time of his marriage, he and his father bought out the hardware business of R. A. Canterbury, which after the death of his father, he continued as A. F. Dierdorff & Co. until 1909. In recent years he had acted as Justice of the Peace.

Impressed with the religious views and church of his ancestors, he was a frequent attendant of it. However, during the pastorate of the Rev. I. E. Honeywell, he became a member of the local Methodist church, which he served on its official board and the Camp Meeting Association Board. He gave liberally of time and money to the erection of this place of worship during his service on its Building Committee. It is a monument of his devotion to his pastor and church.

Without previous illness, he died suddenly on March 4, 1935, being 69 years, 11 months and 9 days old.

He is survived — his widow; his son, Lee of Fort Morgan, Colo.; two grandchildren, Lee Henry, Jr., and Janet Lucille; two brothers, Henry A. of this city and Addison W. of Vinton, Iowa, and one sister, Mrs. Lena Heluler of Fonda, Iowa. Four brothers and two sisters preceded him in death.

Funeral services were held in the afternoon at 2:30 after the body had lain in state. The large attendance at the service gave evidence of the high regard in which the deceased was held. A splendid man, gone to his reward.

Burial was in the Franklin cemetery. Committal services were in charge of the Revs. Winter, Honeywell, Sittler and Tavenner, all former local pastors, and personal friends of Mr. Dierdorff. The casket bearers were Clyde Phillips, George E. Schultz, George S. Ives, Frank H. Senger, Dr. W. L. Moore, Luther Durkes.

Honorary casket bearers: J. H. Lincoln, F. D. Kelley, W. L. Sheap, L. A. Trottnow, W. S. Wasson, Harry Emmert.

Obituary

George Bratton was born at Warriors Mark, Pa., July 16, 1848, and departed this life at his home in Franklin Grove, Ill., March 5, 1935, at the age of 86 years, 7 months and 17 days.

At the age of 22 years he moved with his parents to Franklin Grove where he resided until the time of his death.

In 1873 he was united in marriage to Clista Webb, to which union were born the following children, who survive him: Mrs. Walter Morgan, Franklin Grove; Mrs. Ed Harms, Rochelle; Ross of Elgin; Howard of Norfolk, Neb. and Harry of Franklin Grove. He is also survived by two sisters, Mrs. John McPherson of Chicago and Ed Rinehart of Dixon, six grandchildren, Eldon and Irma Morgan, and Earl, Elmer and George Harms and Mrs. Ralph Walker, of Rochelle. Also a great-grandson, Earl Walker, of Rochelle.

His wife preceded him in death in August 1913.

On Oct. 15, 1915 he united with the Church of the Brethren and for several years was a regular attendant. In his closing and declining years he didn't enjoy this privilege.

He expressed himself as being ready and desirous to depart this life. He was inclined to be patient in suffering and ever desirous to be helpful to others.

There is a land where beauty cannot fade,
Nor sorrow dim the eye,
Where true love shall not droop,
Nor be dismayed,
And none shall ever die.

Funeral services were held Friday afternoon at the Hick's Funeral Home, Rev. O. D. Buck of the Brethren church officiating. Rev. P. Studebaker of the Brethren church sang two beautiful funeral hymns.

Burial was in the Franklin cemetery. Casket bearers were Ira Buck, Lloyd Group, Luther Durkes, Clifford Blocher, Roy Shoemaker and W. W. Phillips.

SLASHED STOCKINGS

In the Middle Ages it was customary to slash the instep of the stocking to show that the wearer was in mourning. It became a rather costly gesture when an epidemic raged, as often happened in medieval days.

Back of 40 million depositors there is over 20 billion dollars on deposit in the United States—a tremendous reserve for the future

...and back of Chesterfield there is more than 85 million dollars invested in mild ripe tobacco... for milder better taste

Because you cannot make a good cigarette from just one year's crop there are today 4½ miles of warehouses filled with cigarette tobaccos from the crops of 1931-32-33-34—most of it for Chesterfield cigarettes. Just as money accumulates interest, two and a half years of ageing makes these tobaccos milder and naturally sweeter.

Think what this means—an eighty-five million dollar reason why men and women who smoke Chesterfields will always enjoy a milder, better-tasting cigarette.
